

Kohfuku-ji Temple

Learn Buddhist Practices from a Monk

Prayers, Sutra Copying, and Creating Your Own "Omamori" Amulet

@ The resting area in front of the Nan-endo (Southern Round Hall) at Kohfuku-ji Temple.

June 26 (Thu)
10:00-16:00

- Starts every hour on the hour (6 sessions in total)
- Each session lasts approximately 1 hour

Prayer Experience with a Monk

A time of prayer to quietly reflect on your wishes under a monk's guidance. Experience the ritual in front of the Buddha while listening to chanting. This rare opportunity allows you to connect with the depths of your heart.

Carefully Transcribe Sutra To Seal Inside Omamori

Carefully transcribe sacred Sanskrit characters with special meaning in Buddhism. Focusing on these characters helps center your mind, connecting you with your inner prayers. The transcribed text will be placed inside your omamori, embodying your intentions.

Create Your Own Unique Omamori

Create your one-of-a-kind omamori, sealing in the transcribed characters and your prayers. This workshop-exclusive "form of a wish" is a small, protective charm that will quietly support you in the days to come.

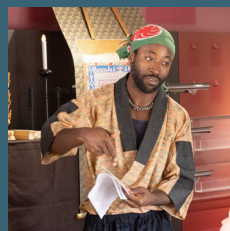

¥3,000 per person

Instructor Profiles

With over 25 years of experience as a monk, Ryukai Kirimura is a senior monk at the historic Jūrin-in Temple in Nara. Drawing on his extensive background, he organizes and leads workshops and lectures across Japan that explore how Buddhist teachings can be applied to daily life, sharing the depth and appeal of Buddhism with a wide audience.

Ryukai Kirimura, Senior Monk at Jūrin-in Temple

After graduating from the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York, Zane moved to Osaka to study calligraphy, karate, and Japanese culture. He designs customized clothing that blends Eastern and Western aesthetics. With a profound love for Japan, Zane is also dedicated to sharing its culture and philosophy with the world.

Zane, Designer from New York

Inquiry, Application

hello@sharing-kyoto.co.jp

+81-(0)75-254-7485

SHARING KYOTO

Application,
Details

About Kohfuku-ji Temple

Kohfuku-ji Temple, established in 710, is the main temple of the Hosso sect of Buddhism and has played a significant role in Nara's history and culture. It houses many Buddhist treasures, including the Ashura statue, and features the Chukondo (Central Golden Hall) with exquisite architecture. The temple's five-story pagoda and gardens showcase seasonal beauty, symbolizing harmony with nature.

